

PM Snapshot

Shown above is a snapshot of our current GANTT chart that lists the tasks from the Trello board and when they are due. The goal is to continue development and testing individual subsystems through next week so that the front end home screen and game framework is ready to integrate with the back end online database by next Friday. The following week will be spent developing, testing and debugging the interface between the two and ensuring that the user and functional requirements are all met.